DID YOU KNOW?

The very serious American Department of Defense has a very serious plan to protect humanity from a possible attack by... zombies! The Pentagon wants, must have the answer to everything, really to everything. Once the document was published, he still had to clarify that it was not a hoax.

Plane

---

Title of your presentation.

A flight from New York to Houston in 1973 took about 2,5 hours. It now takes almost 4 hours. This slowing down of flights is generalised. One reason has to do with fuel consumption: flying slower uses less fuel and airlines are making economies like this, especially in a time when the price of fuel raised a lot. Another reason is a practise known as “schedule padding”: airlines plan for generous flight times to avoid getting in the situation of being late.

DID YOU KNOW?

Did you know that penguins were used as spies during the Cold War?

Scientists would dress them up in little spy costumes and send them on missions to gather secret information about enemy military bases. They were trained to enter enemy bases with small cameras grafted onto their bodies. (Actually there is no costume but it was fun to imagine) This was an effective method because the penguins often went unnoticed and could easily blend into their frigid surroundings. This practice was kept secret for years for national security reasons. During the Cold War, the rival country managed to hack the cameras on board the spy penguins used by the home country. Instead of using this information for military operations, they decided to broadcast it in a series of humorous documentaries called "The Feathered Spies". These documentaries quickly gained popularity around the world for their comedic side and hilarious footage showing the penguins sneaking around military bases.

For years, the country of origin kept the matter secret out of shame, fearing international derision and humiliation. It was only decades later, when a former hacker from the rival country revealed the story in a book, that the scandal came to light. Although it was an embarrassing moment for the home country, many ended up laughing about it and praising the ingenuity of the rival hackers. And since then, the penguins have become the unwilling heroes of an improbable but amusing spy story.

No croissant in France

In the 1980s, a strange law was supposedly passed in France prohibiting citizens from eating croissants on even-numbered days of the month. This law would have been introduced with the aim of promoting a balanced diet by limiting the consumption of pastries rich in fat.

According to urban legend, the French authorities deployed special patrols in the streets to spot and punish offenders who dared to bite into a croissant on an even day. Offenses would have been punished with hefty fines and even prison sentences in the most egregious cases.

CHARACTERISTICS

1 Apocalypse ?

The Pentagon does have a plan against the zombie apocalypse...

2 Plane

Yes, the airlines are really stingy.

3 No croissant

Really ? Who believed it?!

4 Spy Pinguin

Everyone would like it to be true... But no, too bad.
